| Homebound status: Due to diagnosis of Type 2 diabetes mellitus with hyperglycemia, the patient is experiencing decreased endurance and mobility, increasing the likelihood of falls. To safely leave their home, the patient needs assistance from another person and an assistive mobility device                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                  |  |
| Clinical Condition Requiring Homecare: The patient is a 79-year-old male admitted to home health services for medication management due to lower extremity weakness and pain, requiring assistance with activities of daily living (ADLs) and transfers, making leaving the home a taxing effort. His past medical history includes diabetes mellitus on insulin therapy, hyperlipidemia, hypoglycemia, and chronic pain. He resides with a caregiver who assists with all ADLs. The patient is alert and oriented, with stable vital signs and a random blood glucose of 130 via continuous glucose monitoring; however, a discrepancy in the prescribed versus self-administered Novolog dose has been identified, and the provider has been contacted for clarification. The patient is primarily bedbound due to an unsteady gait, uses incontinence products, and has access to a walker and wheelchair, with no reported falls or wounds. He reports occasional labored breathing without abnormal lung sounds and has been instructed to use a spirometer five times daily. Therapy evaluations indicate significant functional decline, including decreased upper and lower extremity strength, impaired balance, and dependence in mobility and self-care tasks. The patient requires contact guard to minimal assistance for bed mobility, transfers, and brief standing with a rolling walker, and demonstrates understanding of prescribed exercises. Skilled nursing, physical therapy, and occupational therapy services have been initiated to improve strength, safety, and functional independence, with the goal of enabling the patient to ambulate short distances within the home, although prognosis is guarded given prolonged immobility.</o:p></o:p> <o:p>&nbsp;</o:p> <o:p>&nbsp;</o:p> Date of Order<o:p></o:p> 04/15/2026 Order<o:p></o:p> Physician Face-to-Face Date: 03/26/2026 Clinical Condition Requiring Home Care per Certifying Physician: SN-disease management PT-eval & treat OT-eval & treat DX: Type 2 |  |                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                  |  |
