To safely leave their home, the patient needs assistance from another person and an assistive mobility device                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                 |  |
| Clinical Condition Requiring Homecare: Home health nursing admission was completed for a 73-year-old female with a medical history significant for poorly controlled diabetes mellitus, chronic kidney disease, hypertension, bilateral knee osteoarthritis with chronic pain, hyperlipidemia, bowel incontinence, left heel ulcer, benign brain neoplasm, bone density disorder, and recent urinary tract infection (UTI). The patient was recently hospitalized for ambulatory dysfunction, dehydration, hyperglycemia, and malodorous urine related to a UTI, followed by discharge to a skilled nursing facility, which she later left against medical advice. She currently resides alone in an elevator-accessible apartment with intermittent family assistance for meals, caregiving, and daily needs. The patient is alert and oriented but demonstrates fatigue, generalized weakness, decreased standing balance and tolerance, reduced upper extremity strength, and significantly impaired mobility. She is currently non-ambulatory due to severe bilateral knee pain and ambulatory dysfunction, requiring a wheelchair for primary mobility and moderate to extensive assistance with transfers, toileting, bathing, dressing, medication management, and other activities of daily living. A Stage 2 pressure ulcer was noted to the sacral area, with the patient independently applying zinc cream; physician orders are needed for wound care management. Education was provided regarding pressure relief, repositioning, skin care, incontinence management, diabetic management, insulin administration, continuous glucose monitor use, medication compliance, fall prevention, and safe transfer techniques. The patient remains at high risk for falls, injury, and inability to respond to emergencies due to living alone without 24/7 supervision. PT and OT evaluations support the need for continued skilled therapy services to improve strength, mobility, safety, functional independence, and return to prior level of function. Skilled nursing services remain medically necessary for cardiopulmonary assessment, diabetic management, wound and skin integrity monitoring, medication education, and ongoing safety assessment.Date of Order05/13/2026 OrderPhysician Face-to-Face Date: 03/24/2026 Clinical Condition Requiring Home Care per Certifying Physician: sn-disease management pt-eval & treat ot-eval & treat hha-adl's dx: Type 2 diabetes mellitus with diabetic chronic kidney disease Homebound Status per Certifying Physician: patient requires another person or medical equipment such as crutches, a walker, or a wheelchair to leave home 1 - SOC - SN Notes:  PT Eval Notes: OT Eval Notes:Physician:Vij, Radhika |  |                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                 |  |
